DETAILED ACTION

STATUS OF THE CLAIMS: Claims 3-6, 9-11, 16-19, 22-24, 26-29 and 31-32 are pending in this application.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to pending claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 3-6, 9-11, 16-19, 22-24, 26-29 and 31-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vorozhtsov et al. (CHEM ABSTRACT 2002).

Vorozhtsov discloses phthalocyanine compounds and compositions use for treating tumors and using said compounds in PDT. (See Abstract). These compounds, compositions and methods read on the instant claim. . Since Vorozhtsov teaches the exact compounds, compositions and methods, Applicant's claims are anticipated, and thus, rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b).

2. Claims 3-6 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Capraro et al. (US Patent 5,358,940).

Capraro discloses phthalocyanine compounds and compositions use for treating epithelia cancer and for use in PDT. (See pages 10-19 and Examples). These compounds, compositions and methods read on the instant claim. Since Capraro teaches the exact compounds, compositions and method, Applicant's claims are anticipated, and thus, rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vorozhtsov et al. (CHEM ABSTRACT 2002).

Applicants claim phthalocyanine compounds and compositions of formula I & II:

wherein all the variables are defined in the claim. Additionally, Applicant claims a method for treating epithelial cancer using said composition.

Vorozhtsov discloses a generic group of phthalocyanine compositions and a method of treating epithelial cancer, which embraces Applicants' claimed compounds and methods. (See Abstract). The claims differ from the reference by reciting specific species and a more limited genus than the reference. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to select any of the species of the genus taught by the reference, including those instantly claimed, because the skilled chemist would have the reasonable expectation that any of the species of the genus would have similar properties, and thus, the same use as taught for the genus as a whole. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to select the claimed compounds from the genus in the reference since such compounds would have been suggested by the reference as a whole. A prior art disclosed genus of useful compounds is sufficient to render prima facie obvious a species falling within a genus. Thus, Applicant's claims are obvious, and therefore, rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103.

4. Claims 3-6 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Capraro et al. (US Patent 5,358,940).

Capraro discloses a generic group of phthalocyanine compositions and a method of treating epithelial cancer, which embraces Applicants' claimed compounds and methods. (See columns 1-7 and formula I and Examples). The claims differ from the reference by reciting specific species and a more limited genus than the reference. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to select any of the species of the genus taught by the reference, including those instantly claimed, because the skilled chemist would have the reasonable expectation that any of the species of the genus would have similar properties, and thus, the same use as taught for the genus as a whole. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to select the claimed compounds from the genus in the reference since such compounds would have been suggested by the reference as a whole. A prior art disclosed genus of useful compounds is sufficient to render prima facie obvious a species falling within a genus. Thus, Applicant's claims are obvious, and therefore, rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103.

Conclusion

Claims 3-6, 9-11, 16-19, 22-24, 26-29 and 31-32 are pending. Claims 3-6, 9-11, 16-19, 22-24, 26-29 and 31-32 are rejected. No claims are allowed.
